

Xtracool Ice Box Dimensions

Notes for Ice Box Measurements

1. All ice boxes have some taper in their internal and external measurements. This is to allow the box to be easily removed from the mould during manufacture. Because of this, the dimension table provides internal measurements measured at the top and the bottom of the ice box interior.
2. Most of the lids on Xtracool ice boxes have a step down into the ice box. Internal height measurements are taken with the lid closed so that this step down is taken into account.
3. The model size is derived from the internal volume of the box without a lid step down included. This is usual method of capacity measurement for most manufacturers. Wall thickness may vary at different points on each box. For consistency, each box has been measured on the right hand side, close to the front top of the box.
4. Ice boxes may have slight differences in size due to mould variation. Please allow +/- 10 mm for this variation.
